

Combine the Sentences

Directions: Combine each cluster of sentences into a cohesive description. Pay attention to how the subject changes between morning and evening, and use contrast or transition words where appropriate.

Cluster 1: The Beach in the Morning

- 1.1 The beach in the morning was serene and calm.
 - 1.2 The beach in the morning had gentle waves lapping the shore.
 - 1.3 The beach in the morning was lit by soft, golden sunlight.
 - 1.4 The beach in the morning was nearly empty, with only a few joggers.
-

Cluster 2: The Beach in the Evening

- 2.1 The beach in the evening became lively and crowded.
 - 2.2 The beach in the evening was lit by colorful sunsets.
 - 2.3 The beach in the evening echoed with laughter and chatter.
 - 2.4 The beach in the evening was filled with families and street vendors.
-

Cluster 3: The City Park in the Morning

- 3.1 The city park in the morning was covered in dew.
 - 3.2 The city park in the morning was alive with the sounds of chirping birds.
 - 3.3 The city park in the morning had early risers walking their dogs.
 - 3.4 The city park in the morning felt cool and refreshing.
-

Cluster 4: The City Park in the Evening

- 4.1 The city park in the evening glowed under streetlights.
 - 4.2 The city park in the evening had children playing on swings.
 - 4.3 The city park in the evening was filled with groups having picnics.
 - 4.4 The city park in the evening felt warm and lively.
-

Answers

Cluster 1: The Beach in the Morning

The beach in the morning was serene and calm, with gentle waves lapping the shore and soft, golden sunlight illuminating the nearly empty sands, where only a few joggers could be seen.

Cluster 2: The Beach in the Evening

In contrast, the beach in the evening became lively and crowded, glowing under the vibrant colors of the sunset, echoing with laughter and chatter, and bustling with families and street vendors.

Cluster 3: The City Park in the Morning

The city park in the morning was cool and refreshing, covered in dew, alive with the sounds of chirping birds, and frequented by early risers walking their dogs.

Cluster 4: The City Park in the Evening

By evening, the city park glowed under the warm light of streetlamps, filled with the laughter of children playing on swings, groups having picnics, and a lively, welcoming atmosphere.